Skills and Experience: I am a current sophomore in college with experience in Python, C++ and Swift and am eager for any opportunity to learn more languages. I am a declared Computer Science major and I have taken classes to learn Python and C++, but am self taught in Swift. I have had a very deep passion for video games ever since I first started playing Morrowind in 7th grade on my dads old Dell that ran Windows 95. I have been searching recently for an avenue to express my love and desire to create a world as equally impressive as the ones I've grown up playing and believe that my passion and eagerness to learn are hard to match.

I tend to have around 20-30 hours of free time a week that I would be willing to invest in learning and working on projects.
