Level of Commitment: Moderately active

Skills and Experience: Hi, I have studied 3D-modeling primarily, but also some animation for a few years. My weapon of choice is Maya, but I handle blender and some zbrush as well as Photoshop.

I have been occupied with other things recently, and feel the need to get going again with 3D. It therefore seemed to me like a good idea to have something I could committ myself to while being useful as well as honing my skills all at the same time.

If you want I could try my hands on something that you need, and show it to you later on?
