Level of Commitment: Somewhat active

Skills and Experience: I have been programming with C# for a long time now, i started with a mobile game company called skyjoy and worked my way from tester to developer in my time there. The game is called SuperKidCannon if you want to check it out. The game was in Unity3D, i also briefly was an independent contractor for unity development.

After that i went into the business sector starting with Finances and then now Web Apps which still use C# and Javascript as the core to their development.
