Skills and Experience: I am a software developer with a degree in computer science from Gonzaga University School of Engineering. Currently I work as a full stack ASP .Net developer at a consulting company, my day to day is in C# with a SQL backend and JS on the client side I also have alot of experience scripting in Python 2.7 and 3.x. I am a quick learner and have a solid background in OO languages as well as imperative, functional and logical programming. I've been interested in learning new areas of software and combining my desire to learn new things with my love of The Elder Scrolls series seems like a great opportunity. I do not know exactly what you guys need so I figured I'd just present my skill set and if you have a place for another developer with my skills but no actual construction kit know how you'd let me know.

As far as my TES background goes the first RPG I really got into was Morrowind on my PC which is probably why I hold it in such high regard, I've played every Bethesda developed game since then and when not playing CSGO I'm exploring the Commonwealth in FO4.
