Skills and Experience: I've been marketing for companies since I was 14 years old and today I have a deep understanding of what it takes to significantly increase a company's sales. My first job was with dll-files.com of which I'm currently still an affiliate. While working with them I also worked on growing a Youtube channel to promote them, the channel has now reached almost a million views with little time investment. I will link the channel, but keep in mind the last video was done when I was much younger so my voice is significantly different now. Since then I've taken business courses in sales and marketing. I currently work marketing for a couple Canadian companies Consumers Choice and Smart Home. In the last seven months I've generated about 450,000 dollars profit between the two companies, nearly doubling Consumers Choice's sales and leading the way for the new company Smart Home. My management position has entailed generating and facilitating leads through email while also going door to door which involved closing many of these sales directly myself. The last important thing to note here is I have experience with marketing through social media, especially Youtube and email that is ultimately going to allow me to skyrocket your community contributions/donations. I look forward to speaking with you and together we can come up with a plan for reaching the exact goals you need in contributions or development as quickly and elegantly as possible.
