Level of Commitment: Highly active

Skills and Experience: I started out 1981 with RPG's and Computers. All from C20, Amiga to 386+387 up until today's more top notch computers. I have played a lot with Papyrus, but never actually got involved in anything serious, lack of serious projects maybe, not sure. I have been involved a lot in previous scripting/coding for NWN/NWN2, especially NWN where I rewrote the trolls the day after the game was released, since they could be killed with ordinary weapons, and DnD Trolls can only be killed by Fire/Acid and Magic Weapons. Have played a total of 4000 hours on Skyrim and not sure how many of the rest of Bethesda games. Estimated maybe 25 000 hours+. I don't really have any special focus regarding coding/scripting, have used what seemed appropriate for the time being. But I have always had a OOP thinking. My main employments have been as an Security Consultant, intrusion prevention. White Hat. No matter, it's my love and compassion for the TES world that made me think of this application, so instead of starting a new project, which I was about to, I felt it would be more giving to involve my self into a already started one. I can accomplish most anything given the time and resources.
