Skills and Experience: I would not call myself an expert at the creation, as I have only played with it for about 460 hours. I have the basic knowledge of searching objects, placing them and moving them around, gridsnapping, Navmeshing, landscaping, creating new NPC's, Items, weapons etc. My papyrus knowledge is minimal however, and I'm not skilled in questcrafting. I do know how to write good ones though, and usually manage to make them not only interesting to read, but to play as well. There is however one giant drawback. I have never played Morrowind. I loved Skyrim and know a whole lot about it's lore and the universe in general, but my knowledge of Morrowind in particular is not very expansive.
